The family of a 48-year-old man who was kicked in the head by a police horse at a New Jersey airport said the officer has lost the use of his right eye and is in a wheelchair. Authorities said the man was arrested after police caught him trying to steal a flight to Cuba and he was charged with criminal trespassing. They said he was taken to Hackensack University Medical Center and treated for a minor injury. Attorney Michael J. Waller said the officer used an arm from his horse to kick the man in the head. The Associated Press is not identifying the officer. The genetical control of the genotoxic effects of chronic treatment with cytosine arabinoside in mouse leukaemic L1210 cells. Cytosine arabinoside (ara-C) has been reported to be a clastogen, and to be clastogenic when used in vitro. Ara-C has also been reported to be cytotoxic. The aim of this study was to determine the clastogenic effects of ara-C in L1210 cells after continuous exposure to ara-C. This compound was administered for 24 h, 72 h, 5 days, 14 days and 20 days. Ara-C was added to the cultures in three different concentrations (20, 30 and 40 micrograms/ml). The genotoxicity was measured using the sister chromatid exchange (SCE) assay and the chromosomal aberration assay. Ara-C caused a dose-dependent increase in the frequency of SCEs and chromosomal aberrations. A 15-fold increase in the rate of S 4bc0debe42
